

Vircon is a full service IT consultancy providing systems integration services to Fortune 1000 customers across the United States. For more than fifteen years, we have worked to define, develop and implement mission critical technology projects, exceeding client expectations and delivering bottom line results consistently to market leading organizations.

Our staff has an average of 15 years expertise in Information Technology, and most have previous senior management experience. The company is employee-based and employees carry accreditation in their area of expertise. This model allows consistency in customer projects and ensures quality delivery. By leveraging industry best practices in SDLC and PMLC, we reduce risk and increase the quality of delivery. We deliver solutions in applications development, networking, database, security, and quality assurance functional areas. We typically assume full lifecycle responsibility for systems development and deployment and also recognize the need to augment specific subject matter expertise gaps in projects.
